Welcome to INTELEC 2010, the conference for energy solutions.

It is with great pleasure that I invite you to Orlando and the 2010 INTELEC conference. We will be holding our conference in the brand new Hilton Bonnet Creek Resort and Conference Center surrounded by Disney World. It promises to be a great venue for both the conference and for our non-conference attendees.

Our industry faces many challenges this year and I hope that we, as industry leaders and trend setters, can chart the course for energy consumption for all methods of communications on the right path.

Over the past years there has been a significant increase in the number of companies providing communications equipment and services. There have been great strides made in reserve power and consumption of energy used for communications equipment. This year we are expanding our reach to all methods of communications and energy usage. With the necessity for thinking of newer ways to produce and use the energy we consume in a more efficient manner, we can better prepare our industry to reduce the cost of communications, while also positioning ourselves to be more environmentally aware of our responsibilities.

We have changed our conference date to early June, to accommodate those with business requirements and families taking children out of school. Also, many of our previous conference attendees have requested that we minimize the conflicts between concurrent technical presentations. To help ensure that the participants are able to attend the technical session of their interest, we will be reducing the number of concurrent sessions. The number of technical presentations will be reduced, but the quality of these papers will be more in tune with the needs of the industry.

While making these changes is a bit painful, it is just a precursor of the recognized needs to maintain the high standards that we as industry professionals must deliver to be more responsive, and to make further improvements to the INTELEC concept.

I hope to see you in Orlando!

Marc J. Durocher

A Technical Forum on Innovation and Power Quality

If you manufacture, distribute, sell or service products related to telecommunications or computer energy systems, INTELEC 2010 is the place to make contact with international leaders in the field...

Exhibit hours have been arranged to give exhibitors maximum exposure. Social functions have been planned in the exhibit area so that delegates meet on both a social and business level. All session coffee breaks will be held in the Exhibit Hall's food service areas. More information can be obtained on the Web at www.intelec.org.

INTELEC will appoint an official service contractor who will provide you with an Exhibitor's Service Kit containing order forms for all necessary services.

Exhibitors Admission Policy

Exhibiting companies are required to meet the following criteria:

- 1) The company must be engaged in the design, development, manufacturing, marketing, distribution, operation or servicing of AC or DC power systems, energy conversion or energy storage equipment in communications networks as its principal business or maintain a department or division devoted to this work.
- 2) The company must offer products or services for sale directly to communications network integrators or operators. Any exceptions to this policy will be reviewed by the Management Committee which retains the right, in its sole discretion, to refuse or deny any application submitted, in which case any deposit shall be refunded.

The EXHIBITS-ONLY badges and registration do not include attendance at the Technical Sessions of the Conference. Registration for the full Conference must be completed using the official registration form, which will be sent by mail or will be available on the website at www.intelec.org.
